

From time immemorial, trade and commerce have been the engines of growth for civilizations. As a result, there have always been widespread developmental activities and manpower requirements in these industry verticals. The development of new air routes and sea routes as well as the world shrinking into a global village only accelerated the scope and possibilities of world trade.

Kerala Institute of Management Studies (KIMS) based at Kochi, has been the brainchild of a group of visionary industry experts who have always been in the thick of trading and logistics action. The institute aims to familiarize both youngsters and working professionals with the latest trends and paradigms of the manufacturing, trading, shipping and cargo management industries.
